A Foreword. . .

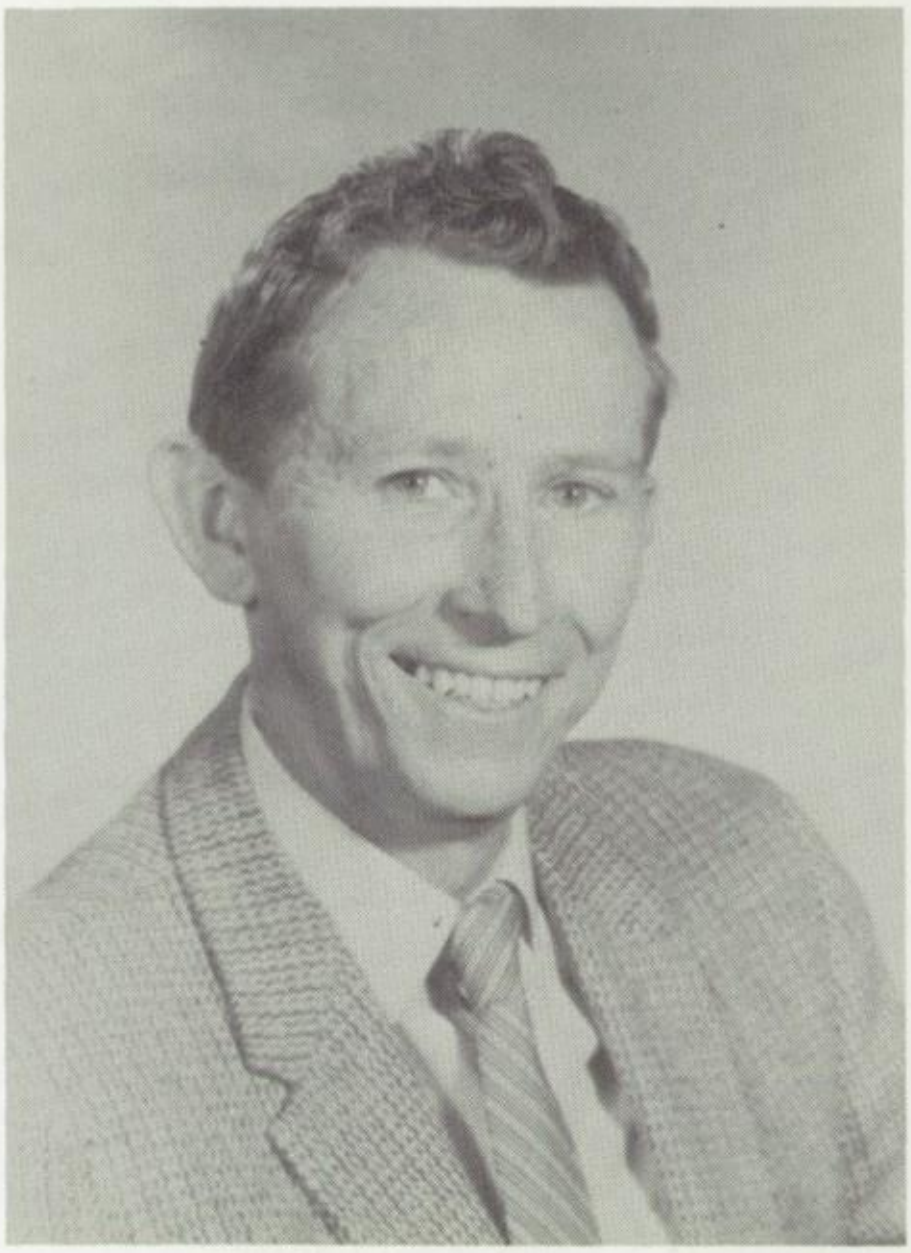
"Paths are universal things.
They mark the way for fools and kings."

In choosing the theme for the 1964 edition of the Archives, the yearbook staff had to consider many things.

The perfect choice would be something familar to everyone. It would apply to every aspect of the many facets of school life. Above all, it was felt, the theme should suggest the fact that high school life is not an experience that ends with the last page of this book.

For a path, like the rainbow, goes on to infinity where it once began.

Dedication . . .

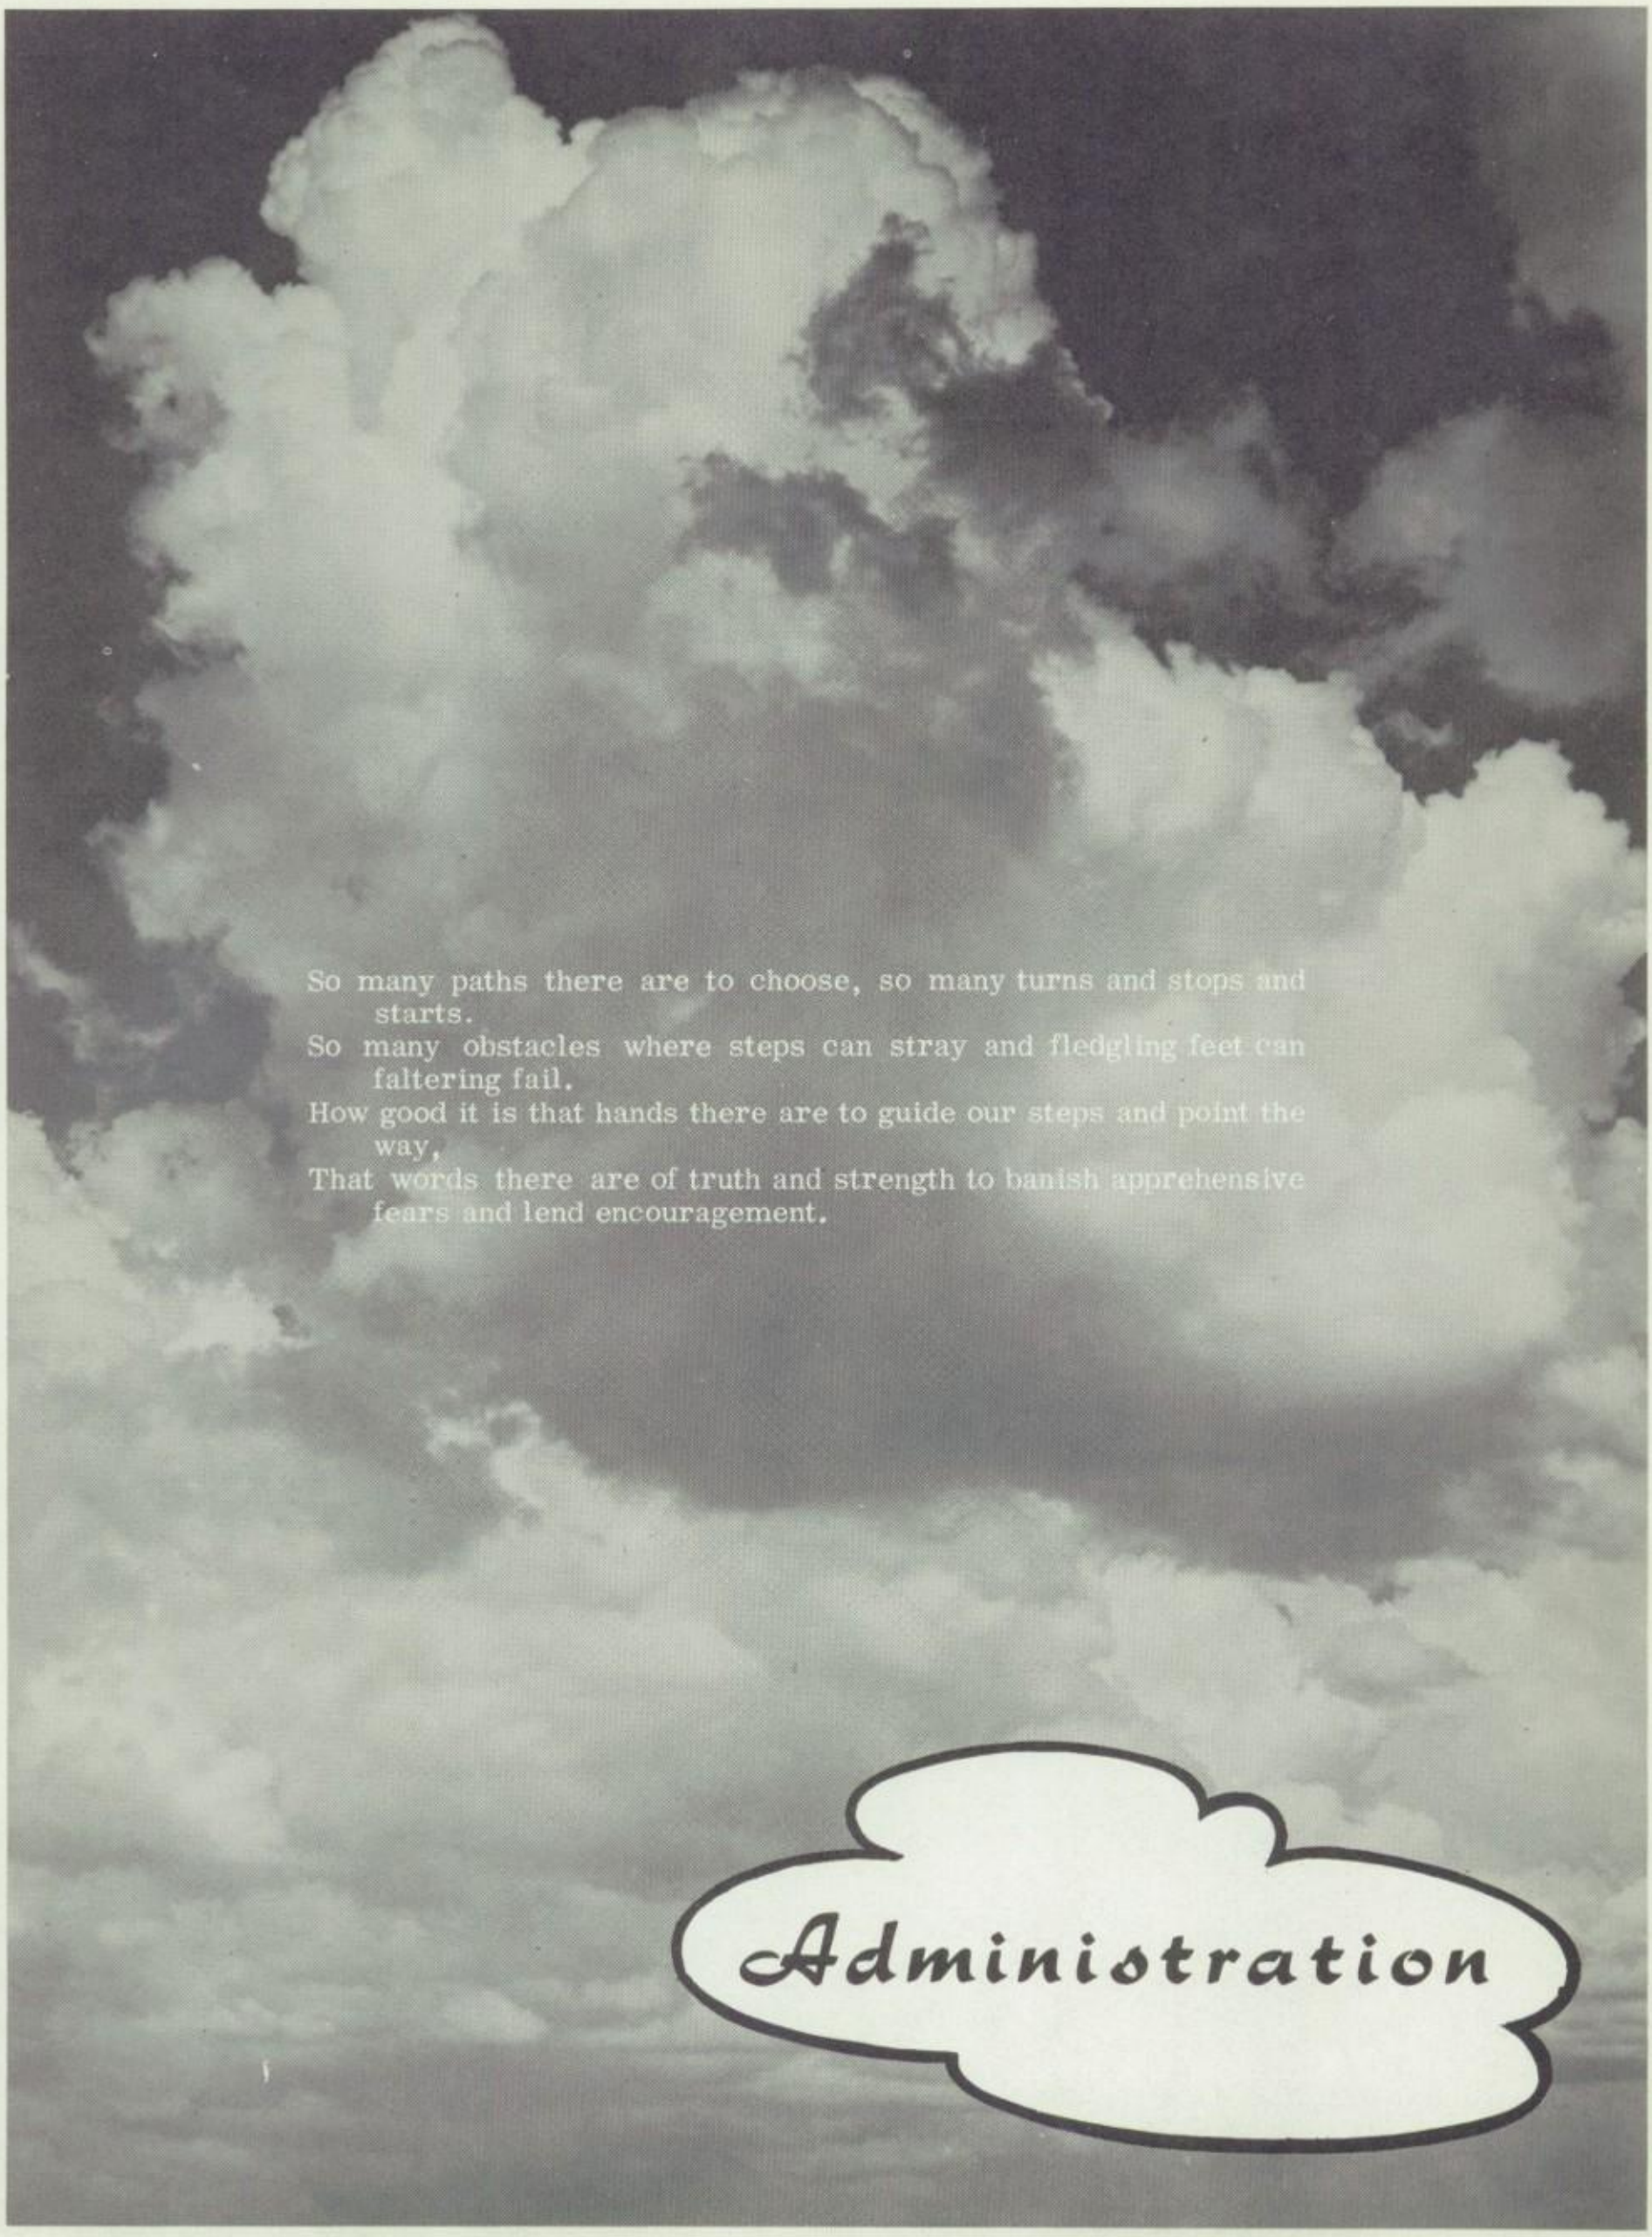


Mr. Harold Kinner, an industrial arts teacher, has been a member of the Jefferson School staff for nine years. He has also taught driver's education for three years.

Mr. Kinner received his Bachelor's degree from Kent State University and his Master's degree from the University of Toledo.

All the students know Mr. Kinner for his winning smile and good sense of humor.

For these reasons the staff of the 1964 Archives respectfully dedicates our yearbook to Mr. Kinner.



So many paths there are to choose, so many turns and stops and starts.
So many obstacles where steps can stray and fledgling feet can faltering fail.
How good it is that hands there are to guide our steps and point the way,
That words there are of truth and strength to banish apprehensive fears and lend encouragement.
Administration

MR. HAROLD F. SODT, SUPERINTENDENT...

Mr. Sodt has served us as Superintendent of Jefferson High School for fifteen years. He has been in the school business for thirty-two years and spent seventeen years teaching.

He obtained his Bachelor of Science degree fom the University of Michigan.

Board of Education

FIRST ROW: Conrad Michel, vice president; Robert Marshall, secretary; C. E. Marshall, treasurer. SECOND ROW: John S. McNairn, president; Thomas J. Verran, trustee; Iva Mennig, trustee; Harold Sodt, superintendent; Thomas Sisung, trustee.

It is the responsibility of the School Board of Jefferson High School to see there is money to support the school program, to see there is money for the buildings, and to control the curriculum which is appraised periodically for its effectiveness.

MR. RAYMOND A. KESSLER, PRINCIPAL...

Mr. Kessler has been with the Jefferson School system for fourteen years, eleven of which have been spent as principal.

He is a graduate of the University of Toledo.

Students of Jefferson will always remember Mr. Kessler for two outstanding characteristics of his personality-his understanding of student problems and his patience in helping to solve them.

MR. WILLIAM J. EATON, COUNSELOR...

Mr. Eaton, one of the hardest people to locate, is the most pursued teacher in Jefferson High School. If you've tried to corner him for that big switch of classes you know how hard it really is. But what a jumbled mess our school would be if he decided to let us schedule our own classes. Whom could we turn to with a problem without Mr. Eaton?

Mrs. Meyer, usually found busy throughout the day answering calls, keeping records, and typing letters, always has a smile and is willing to give any help she can. She is the only person on the secretarial staff.

JEFFERSON TEACHERS ...

Twenty-nine faculty members, teaching in eleven departmental study areas, make up the staff at Jefferson High School. Many of these, in addition to regular classroom duties, sponsor extra curricular student activities.

There are some courses that all students, at some time or another in their high school careers, have to take, in some cases, in fact, even two or three times. Teachers of these courses often "get to know" their students a little better.

AT CHOW TIME ...

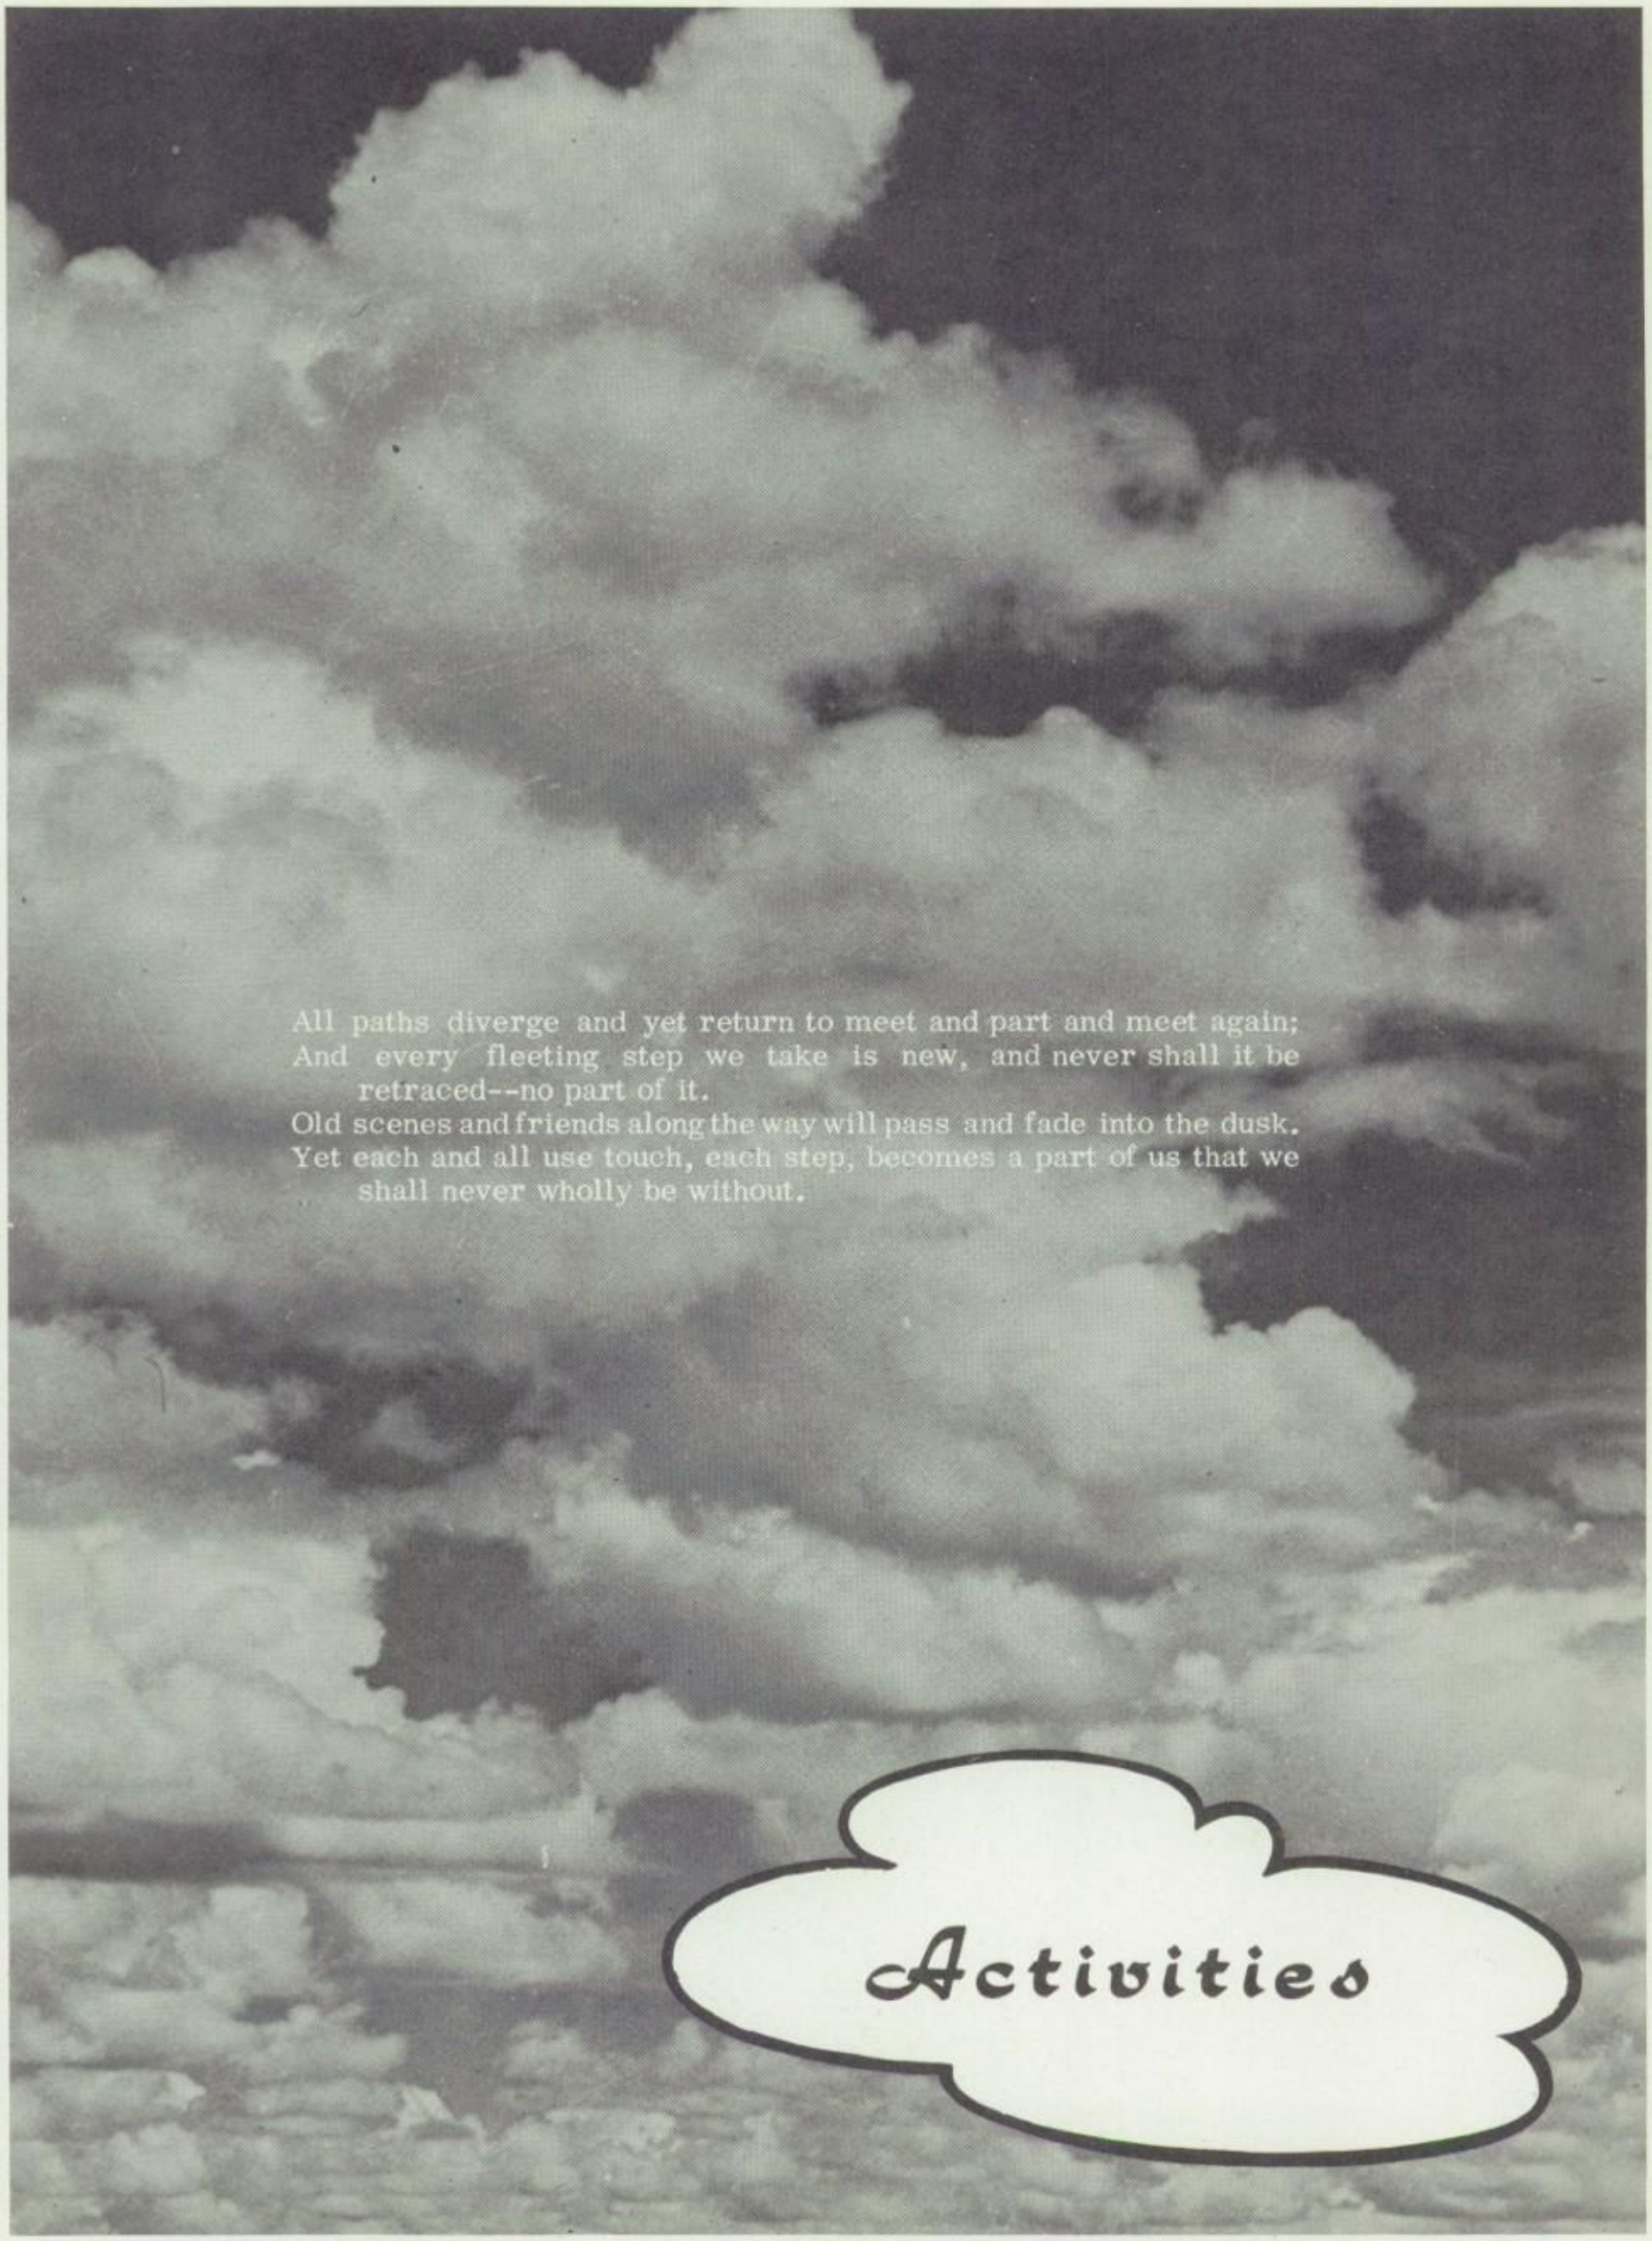
Feeding nearly 400 hungry teenagers every day of the school year is no small task, and we often wonder how the cafeteria staff manages to get the job done without losing their collective minds.

The food must be pretty "wild" by the way the students try to get to the head of the line by taking "cuts."

Mrs. Doran, Mrs. Parks, and Mrs. Regelin are busy fixing a dessert for lunch. They started preparing the food in the morning.

Mrs. Avendt is in charge of the smooth operation of the cafeteria.

Mrs. Halstead, planning a menu, is responsible for the well balanced meals.



All paths diverge and yet return to meet and part and meet again;
And every fleeting step we take is new, and never shall it be retraced--no part of it.
Old scenes and friends along the way will pass and fade into the dusk.
Yet each and all use touch, each step, becomes a part of us that we shall never wholly be without.

Activities

Homecoming . . .

Karen Tomkinson and Pam Stone, last year's queens, place the crown on Judy's head beginning a new reign.

The accent is on Homecoming in the fall of the year. Everything is hustle and bustle for weeks beforehand. At last the day arrives, the votes are in, and tension is high. We see the crowning of our queen, and all is complete.

Her Majesty, the Queen, Judy Mink.

Miss Jefferson

Miss Andrea Roberts, our Miss Jefferson, represented the school in the Torch Drive Parade, an annual event held in Monroe.

In order to reach this position a girl should have the following qualifications: Leadership, neatness in appearance, and most important of all, a high academic record. Andrea's membership in The National Honor Society shows her academic qualifications.

Andrea is also connected with many school activities. Among the functions she participates in are cheerleading, Junior Achievement, and Student Council. She has the distinctive honor of being the only girl elected to the office of class President in the official life of Jefferson High School.

Andrea's future plans include college.

Andrea with escort Bill Absalom.

Miss D.A.R.

Kathleen Bleyaert, our Miss DAR for 1964, was selected by the senior girl population and various teachers. The Nancy DeGraff Toll Chapter of The Daughters of the American Revolution is conducting the program in Monroe. Kathy and her mother were honored at the March tea, and Kathy then was taken to the Annual Good Citizens event held in connection with the DAR.

The truthfulness and punctuality of dependability,

Is interred within this girl.

Unselfish interest in school with responsibility,

Shows her leadership and self-control.

Courtesy and co-operation for all,

Makes Kathy our Miss D.A.R..

"No Boys Allowed"

Rita was mad at Fred because he was seen kissing a blonde at the airport, but Fred declared that this blonde was his cousin. Of course, Rita didn't believe him. During a slumber party at Rita's house, Fred tries to persuade Rita of his innocence. He decides that he and his friend Leroy will scare Rita and the girls so that he can come to the rescue. Meanwhile, the girls get Harvey and Keith to "protect" the eats. Keith wants to date Rita, so he too decides to scare Rita and the girls so that he can come to their rescue. Unknown to everyone, a prowler, Mr. Midnight who is scaring the women of the neighborhood, gets trapped in the house. He totally frightens the maid, Victorla. The two plots to scare the girls take place at the same time and cause great confusion. Everything is straightened out when Mrs. Dana, Fred's mother, explains about the blonde cousin. Mr. Midnight is captured but succeeds in getting away in great confusion at the end.

"The Night of January 16th"

The setting is a courtroom where Karen Andre, lover, accomplice, and accused murderer of Bjorn Faulkner, waits for justice to take its course.

There is proof enough of Miss Andre's relationship with Faulkner since they were seen many times together, including the night of his death. Although Faulkner was in love with Karen, there was another woman in his life, Nancy Lee Whitfield, a rich, spoiled snob. Because of wealth, not love, he had married her.

The drama unfolds as each witness gives his testimony. Everything looks hopeless for Karen until Larry Regan, a gangster friend, abruptly makes his entrance and tells Karen not to say anything because Faulkner really is dead. If you will recall, Karen is on trial for his murder.

Then Regan tells how Karen, Bjorn, and he planned to leave the country with twenty-five million dollars. They had decided to set up a fake suicide by using a local gangster, who had been conveniently killed on the same night. Regan stated that Faulkner had the money in three different banks under assumed names. They would divide the money and go their separate ways. Regan waited one month. Then he found the ruins of a plane which held the body of Bjorn Faulkner.

After Regan's testimony, which is the last, the defense attorney presents her side of the case, and the prosecuting attorney his. The jury retires to make a decision of guilty or not.

Student Council

The entire homecoming proceedings, a highlight of the season this year, was a project of the Student Council. Class elections were supervised by the Fair Elections Practices Committee. The Publicity Committee was kept busy making "pep posters" for Student Council projects and for our Miss Torch Drive Candidate, Miss Andrea Roberts. Posters were also made to boost the student enthusiasm in connection with athletic events.

Four hundred dollars was given to the school board by the Student Council toward the purchase of blackout curtains for the high school.

The establishment of our local chapter, Cercle d'Honneur, serves to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to encourage the development of character, and to promote worthy leadership. Along with these qualities a member of the society is looked upon by the other students with respect.

Activities of the National Honor Society of our school included the assistance in the administration of tests given by Mr. Eaton and the helping with the U of M accreditation program. To raise money for the Jefferson Scholarship Fund, they sold potato chips at noon and ran the concession stand at the faculty basketball game. Long range goals of the N.H.S. are a tutoring and exchange program and a program to discourage high school dropouts.

The first steps in producing the yearbook are done by the business staff. This year Billie Liford was the business editor. Under her were two duties, advertising and sales. Diane Manor, Jan Tomkinson, and Sue Edmondson worked on the latter part. The advertising was handled by Diane and Jan once again, with help from Larry Orr, Tanya Marshall, and Charlotte Fleszar, The art staff was also involved with the ads, with Clark Green doing the advertising copy and Rob Scoles, the other member of the art staff, was responsible for all art work appearing in the Archives. The next step was securing photographs. The student photographer this year is Barbara Venema. Other pictures were taken by Powell Studios and the MONROE EVENING NEWS. The remaining staff members are concerned with the actual putting together of this book. They are Sue Heatherly, editor; typists, Beth Hanson and Ruby Baker; and the section heads, Kathy Ery, administration; Chris Owsinek, underclassmen; Judy Madon, activities; Roy Beville, sports; and Sandy Simmons, seniors. Kathy Bleyaert was responsible for the poems on each divider page and the foreword.

Along the paths we pause to play in friendly tests of mental skills and body strength;
To fashion out of teamwork, courage, and diligence in training, a sense of pride in games well played;
To learn the joys of winning, yet to take, with graciousness and magnanimity, defeat.
For in the world of days and years to come, all shall taste, and many times, of both.

Sports

Bears Post Winning Season

Fourteen seniors led the Bears to another winning season by posting a 4-3 record. This season they were coached by an entirely new staff with the exception of Mr. Cisco, who moved up to head coach. The new assistant coach was Mr. Taylor, and the new reserve coach was Mr. Zimmer.

There were many highlights on the Jefferson gridiron. Due to many penalties and injuries, the Bears did not complete a much hoped for undefeated season.

After the season had been completed, the coaches had to make the tough decisions on the choices for the special awards. Among the seven trophy winners, there were five seniors. Rob Scoles, senior quarterback, was the most valuable player. Bill Cvengros, a rugged halfback, was the best offensive back. Rick Peer, a senior halfback, was the best defensive back. Roy Beville, senior co-captain and guard, was the best offensive lineman. John Cronk, a promising junior tackle, was the best defensive lineman. Bob Bomia, a real worker, won the coaches' award. Jim Fischer, a sophomore halfback, won the humor award.

The fans witnessed many outstanding plays while attending the games. The Bears have shown great promise and are expected to give all they have next year.

RESERVES ARE WINNERS

The reserves this year compiled a 4-2 record. With so many of the varsity team members being seniors, there will be plenty of room for many of these reserves next year on the varsity team. These boys have gained a great deal of experience on the reserve team and should be very helpful to our varsity team. According to their record, they have the desire and experience to win.

Above the advantage of Tom's 6'1" height is shown. Even though he does not block this Catholic Central player's shot, just having his hand up decreases the accuracy of the opponents' shots. Tom had a great deal to do with the defensive play of our games.

Pictured above and in the lower corner is Jim Grunow, a senior guard. Above Jim is trying to block a Central player's shot. On defense Jim was always a threat.

To the right Jim is posing his two hand set shot, which truly made him a threat on the basketball court. In the first Mason game Jim set the school scoring record of 39 points using his set shot a great deal of the time.

RESERVES GAIN EXPERIENCE ...

The reserves finished with a 4-11 mark including a few close losses. They might not have had a winning season, but they showed a great deal of hustle and desire in their games. Many of the reserves show a good amount of ability and with a little more experience and practice, they should be very essential to the varsity team next year.

Pictured are Roy Beville, Al Maus, and Jim Francisco showing their form in throwing the shot-put. Al scored the most points for the team last year while participating in such events as the shot-put, 100-yd. dash, 220-yd. dash and 880-yd. relay.

The very stir of life in man makes him a dreamer and a wanderer.
Throwing away the chart-like rules,
he sets his heart along the untried paths.
Where unknown barriers stay his steeps and shades of doubt cast dimness on his dreams
Then suddenly light and sunshine flek the leaves and show the way
And he stands facing new horizons
holding in his hands
Experience, the priceless stones to pave the way and make it sure for him and those to come.

CLASS OFFICERS LEFT TO RIGHT: Linda Hance, Secretary; Ron Myers, President; Lana Godfrey, Vice President; Donna Poore, Treasurer.

Sophomores

This year was a new experience for the sophomores. They have spent their first year in high school.

Their class election was very enthusiastic. Elected to office were Ron Myers, President; Lana Godfrey, Vice President; Donna Poore, Treasurer; Linda Hance, Secretary.

The Magazine drive, sponsored by the class of '66, proved to be a great success with sales topping that of all previous records in Jefferson.

CLASS OFFICERS LEFT TO RIGHT: Bob Sander, President; Art Parzych, Treasurer; Darryl Eighmey, Vice President; Jan Tomkinson, Secretary.

Juniors

For the juniors the '63-'64 school year was fairly quiet.

When elections were held, Bob Sander was nominated President; Darryl Eighmey, Vice President; Art Parzych, Treasurer; Jan Tomkinson, Secretary.

The highlight of events for the class of '64 was the presentation of "The Night of January 16th," a play concerning a court room trial.

Five juniors were honored by being inducted into the National Honor Society. The five were William Absalom, Darryl Eighmey, Art Parzych, Andrea Roberts, and Bob Sander.

A TWIRP dance, the woman is requested to pay, was sponsored by the junior class on February 28.

Within this sphere of things no path there is that ends without another that leads on.
Each within itself is fraught with challenges and trials, with hopes and joys and disillusionment,
And each moves on to vast and new horizons for us to look upon.
New friends for us to meet, new lives to build, and yet new paths to take ...

Seniors

VALEDICTORIAN

Susan Heatherly has maintained a 3.9 average through the four years of high school. Her future plans are to major in secondary education next fall at the University of Michigan.

SALUTATORIAN

James Grunow has maintained a 3.8 average throughout his high school years. As for future plans, he is undecided. He will enter either Michigan State University or Whittenburg University this fall and plans on majoring in either accounting or business managing.

Class Prophecy . . .

Late one night long after the commencement ceremony of the class of '64, Mr. Kessler was working in his office. Finally completing his work, he returned the files to the safe. It had been quite some time since Mr. Kessler had last ventured into the safe, and the large package therein had slipped from his mind. Glancing at the card tied onto the package, Mr. Kessler read aloud, "In appreciation for your consideration and care, we, the class of 1964, wish you to have this small token of our esteem. Follow the instructions carefully. Sincerely, The last of the Good Guys."

One tug on the twine and the brown paper fell revealing a shiny box, which resembled a small television and was named 'Tru-Vu'. Also enclosed in the package was a small plastic box which contained IBM cards and instructions. With a puzzled look on his face, Mr. Kessler read the instructions to himself. They read: Step 1. Plug machine into A.C. socket. Step 2. Bring chair close to machine. Step 3. Insert cards in slot A above viewing screen. Step 4. Turn switch to on and Step 5. Be seated.

After carefully following the instructions, Mr. Kessler was startled by what happened next. The machine began to make weird noises. Dials spun, lights flashed, and after a moment of silence, the machine gave off a violet smoke. Quite unimpressed by this practical joke, Mr. Kessler moved toward the machine to turn it off. But the class of '64 had not failed him! Before him on the viewing screen a beautiful array of colors swirled around and around and out of the depths of color came a sign which read "The Tom Chapman Show." From the small machine came an abundance of applause and laughter, and there on the screen appeared Jim Doederlein, now working as M.C. for Tom. Tom came on stage and opened with his usual greeting: "Hi Gang." After a few jokes, out came Tom's card girl Wanda Hammac to give a rundown of the personalities to appear on the show. The first guest was to be that famous critic and commentator Richard Merrick. The second card read, "I am the greatest!" and this could mean no one else but the one and only Bob 'Sonny' Gross. The third card introduced a new gymnastic team Don Archer and Dennis Eckert, who would give a basic pattern for physical fitness. As Wanda held up an oversized card reading Bill Boberg, who else but the world famous comedian came crashing through the sign. After a great round of applause, Tom named a few famous people who were in the audience. He announced: Dennis Brooks, the great Chicago Bear's tackle; Sandra Simmons, Metropolitan Opera star; Barbara Fountain, world renowned horse breeder; accompanied by the ranch veterinarian, Diane Manor; football coaches Bill Cvengros of Navy and Al Maus of the rival Army team. The show lasted a full 90 fun-filled minutes and at the close a list of credits was flashed on the screen. Among these many names, Mr. Kessler picked out the ones he knew: Secretaries: Carol Kull, Connie Masserant, Kathy Bressler. Set Design: Myron Lockmiller, Robert Prucka, Andrew Meyer, Darryl Carter, Harley Mylne, Jim Cavins, Gillus Maddox, Gillus Ownns. Electrical Work: John Haper, William Poore. Hair Designs by Lynn Zinner and Dodie Martin. Fashions by Sunday Navarre.

As the last of the credits were given, a school building came into view on the screen. The picture was a panning view of a school hallway. School was in session, and the usual hallway noises were heard. Two teachers were talking in the hallway. Their conversation went: "Coach Peer, do you think you could spare me five or six football players after school to help me move chairs for my speech class program tonight?" "Of course, Miss Reynolds, I'd be happy to." On the wall behind the teachers was a large list of teachers and courses they teach. The list began: Alumni High School. Of the teaching staff within these walls only 7 teachers were not members of the 1964 graduation class of Jefferson High School. Mr. Kessler read the names he knew. Math Department: Susan Heatherly, James Jaworski, Nancy Long; English Department: Robert Bomia, Connie Reynolds; Industrial Arts: John Turner, Willis Webster; Commercial Department: Blenda Edmondson, Tom Willis; Science Department, Ron Tykoski, Tim Grove; History Department: Pam Shelly, Linda McDevitt; Music Department: Garret Daniels, David Shaw; Physical Education: Edward Ellison, Paula Colyer; Special Department. Special Education: John Griffiths; Home Economics: Billie Liford; Counselors: Cathy Tomlinson, Michael Oklejas; Coaches: Richard Peer - Football. Robert Bomia - Basketball. Gregory Sisung - Wrestling. The next picture to appear on the screen was the school office where secretaries Judy Baltrip, Cynthia Cole, and Andria Rose were busy signing up new students. A few of the registering mothers seemed quite familar to Mr. Kessler. He placed them as the former Ruby Baker, Pat Greashaber, Sue Gotha, Doris Smith, and Shirley Woods.

'Reliability is our middle name' read a big sign atop a mammoth building. Under the sign in neon lights was written 'Daniels Oil Co. and Garages'. In the main office President Ed Daniels was quoting a list of main employees to his private secretary Florence Friar. He began, "Head mechanics of branch stations are as follows: David Schaub-Los Angeles, James Francisco-Detroit, Mike Berry-New York, and Jack Black-Chicago. Secretaries: Florence Friar, Bonnie Minney, Sharon Middlemas. Accounting: Louis Horn and Dru Anteau. Research: Edward Pickens. Advertising: James Mabe. Miss Friar, please send in those representatives from the various architection firms." Into the office came David Dudley, Kenneth Massingill, James Nadeau, and Robert Todd. The picture faded out as the men were submitting bids on a new $5 million dollars research laboratory.

The screen was next occupied by a courtroom scene. Demanding order in the court was Judge Jay Verran. The attorneys had gotten into a heated argument over some legal term, and the court room was in a turmoil. Attorneys Michelle Meinhardt and Grant Thoms just didn't agree on anything. The court room procedure was stopped just long enough for Grant to receive advice from Mike Balent, his consultant, and for court stenographer Joan Masserant to change tape in her stenotype. Mr. Kessler couldn't make out who was on trial or what the charges were but several times Donna Giamanco, prison matron, had to ask the assistance of police sergeant Robert Katanski to quiet the defendant, a young woman in black. The plaintiff was an old man with two nurses attending him. The nurses Mr. Kessler recognized as Sharon Simmons and Nancy Sinatra. While Mr. Kessler tried to pick out some of the people in the jury, his train of thought was broken by a very loud, "Your honor I object!" Again the court room was in an uproar and as the picture began to fade Mr. Kessler was able to pick out Reverend Larry Zieske who was quieting a young girl who had begun to cry.

Sitting on the edge of his chair with curiosity, Mr. Kessler wished he could find out the result of the trial; but he was out of luck. For now on the remarkable screen was a large stock room of a department store. The store had not yet opened and manager Diane Edwards was checking out various inventories. She was accompanied by a few employees, Judy Swope, secretary; Barbara Berns, bookkeeper; and Rachel Parrish, accountant. Their work was interrupted by the store detective David Hance and complaint department head Kathy Chinavare. "Miss Edwards," called Kathy, "I just can't manage to find enough room in my department for all my filing cabinets." Diane turned to her secretary and said, "Miss Swope, contact Jeanann Regelin and see if she had enough room in her toy store room for six filing cabinets. Detective Hance, what can I do for you?" "Nothing," replied Dave, "I just brought a message from Vicki Ellison. She said to have you tell Clark Green that she won't be able to pose for those sketchings this afternoon because she has to go to New York for a model's convention.

The machine began to make funny noises and while Mr. Kessler read the instructions to see what adjustments could be made, the picture on the screen changed from the dark store room to a plush newspaper office. A name plate on the paper covered desk read: Dick Harmer-Editor and Chief. While dictating an editorial into his dictaphone, Dick was interrupted by two old schoolmates who had flown in from Washington on Business. Surprising Dick were Jim Grunow, Secretary of the Treasury, and Diane Beaudry, Librarian in the Library of Congress. Once the two started talking they brought up old friends whom they had not seen since graduation. From the conversation Mr. Kessler found out that Kathy Bleyaert was professor of English Literature at Smith College and Roy Beville Doctor of Chemistry at Harvard. After they had talked for awhile, Dick offered to show the two around his large building. Though they walked just out of hearing range, Mr. Kessler read the names on the desk plates that Dick was showing his guests. Barbara Venema, Psychologist; Jim Duvall, Photographer; and Darleen Pydlek, Syndicated Columnist were the names Mr. Kessler read in one office. On a large dummy sheet lying on a marble counter Mr. Kessler saw the outline for one page of the day's paper. He glanced over the page and came to a marriage counseling column written by Ann Kronsperger and Dick Currey. Once again the trio appeared on the screen this time walking down a hallway. They passed two doors. On one was written Accounting, Alan Miller C.P.A. The other door, which was ajar, read Robert Scoles, Cartoonist. In the office, Mr. Kessler saw Rob hard at work shouting orders to his four attractive secretaries, Kathy Fleszar, Janice Navarre, Pat Ellison and Judy Mink. The picture on the screen became distorted and Mr. Kessler became angry. After a few seconds the picture was alright, but a different scene was on the screen. A long beautiful beauty salon now occupied the screen. Though unaccustomed to the interior of a beauty shop, Mr. Kessler tried to surmise what the people were doing. Four women in uniforms were getting their hair done by the professional hair dresser. Mr. Kessler saw no relationship between the beauty shop and the purpose of the machine until he recognized Pam Grodi who was paging Mike Barron, shop manager, for a phone call at her busy switch board. The picture became a panning view of the row of chairs. Mr. Kessler leaned closer to the screen to pick out any other person he might recognize. He then saw that the women in uniforms were Air Force Sergeant Karen Shanteau, being attended to by Mildred Shaw and Sergeant Diane Navarre getting her hair done by Pat Timminy. The third chair was occupied by Registered Nurse Beth Hanson who was talking to her operator Penny Deitzen and the fourth was Nurse Juanita Parks receiving a permanent from Linda Heaton. In the waiting room of the beauty shop were male nurse Sam Freimark and Air Force Lieutenant Bernie Pierce who were waiting to take the four women back to their places of work. Horizontal lines crossed the screen and a loud humming noise came out of the strange box. What happened next was a shock to Mr. Kessler. On the screen, through the dimming light; flashed four different settings. The first was a large farm sight where farmer Lance Bauer was issuing orders to his crew of farm hands. The next picture was of Nuclear Physicist John Hochradel working on his latest book. The picture got progressively worse and as the last bits of lights flashed on the screen Mr. Kessler saw trucking line president Tom Hertzsch dictating a letter to his secretary Pat Moore, and very dimly Eric Carney and Tom Girrbach in uniforms patroling a great forest in a jeep.

The machine rocked back and forth and after a loud whirling sound was made it gave off a black smoke and then nothing. The safe was dark. The fantastic machine had served its purpose. After locking the safe, Mr. Kessler walked out to his car secure in the knowledge that the class of 1964 had made their places in the world.

Patterns in Confusion

The patterns of life's pathways are hard to understand;
We wander like lost children in a vast confusing land.
For each the road is different, and each along the way.
Will leave his mark for followers to see another day.

The challenge of the future we each along must meet;
Take heart, advance in progress, or cower in retreat.
Give up for just an instant, and your fate will be
A disturbed and bothered conscience, unwanted company.

There is no time for wasting in weary traveler's rest.
By stopping for a moment, we fail another test.
To know and feel sorrow is a price we all must pay
For the gladness of tomorrow which gilds the dreary gray.

For darkness, rain, and rivers wide are tools to forge the key
And temper it to fit the lock that holds eternity.
Yet men's minds tend to wander in freedom as they might,
To build inspired dreams by day, they fashioned in the night.

And each must have a dream to guide his way thru smiles and tears.
We stand along unless we find a faith that conquers fears,
A trust and belief in something that each himself must know,
A goal, a star, a hope, a plan, a trust, a candle's glow.

For like beacon lights on troubled seas, a rainbow in a storm,
A friendly face among a crowd, a fire, cozy, warm,
Like morsel in a famine, like frink on arid sand,
To the lone misguided traveler in Faith's sturdy constant hand.

Class of '64

The discovery of the class of 1964 was an accident. Three years ago, early one morning on the 18th of September, 1961, the faculty of the Jefferson High School were strolling aimlessly through the corridors, chatting about the new building and wondering whether there would be any startling changes in their work during the coming year.

Suddenly they caught a glimpse of something new and strange. Just inside the front door, huddled together in embarrassment and anxiety, were the members of what became the class of 1964. To the casual eye, they seemed merely a group of ordinary boys and girls, well dressed, reasonably good-looking, and frightened. But to the trained eyes of these experienced explorers, these strangers seemed distinct individuals, each possessing aptitudes and talents, deficiencies and capabilities decidely worth finding out.

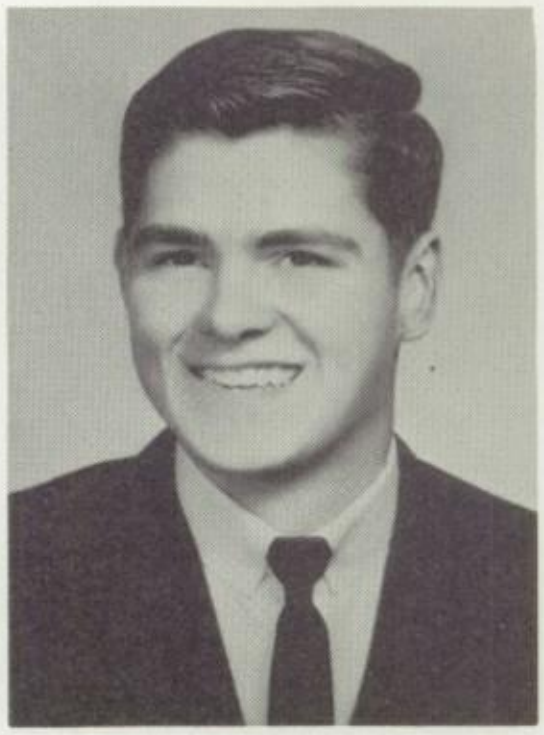
"A man of few words and fewer words."

KATHY CHINAVARE
"Dark brown hair, laughing eyes, a little devil in disguise."

CYNTHIA COLE
"A pleasant girl to have around, but hardly ever makes a sound."

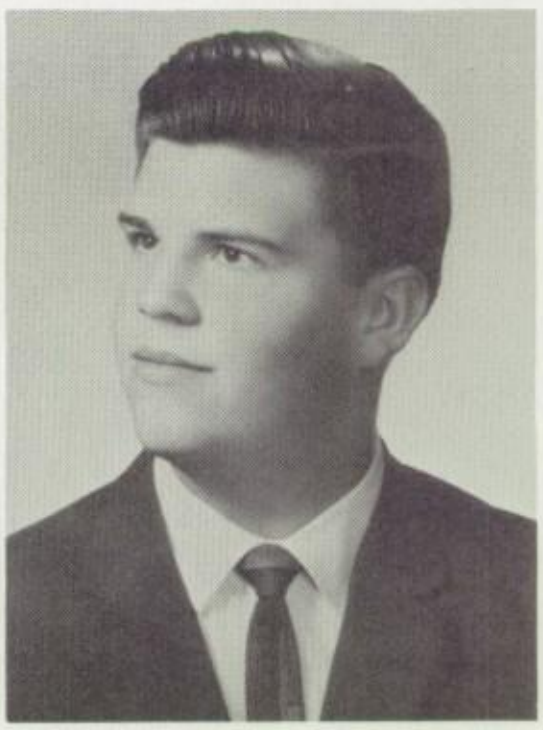


ED DANIELS
"Speech is great, but silence is greater."

PAULA COLYER
"Restless as a windshield wiper on a rainy day."

PENNY DIETZEN
"She lives for those who love her."

DICK CURREY
"I am what I am, do not try to alter me."



JIM DOEDERLEIN
"T.N.T. - Today not Tomorrow."

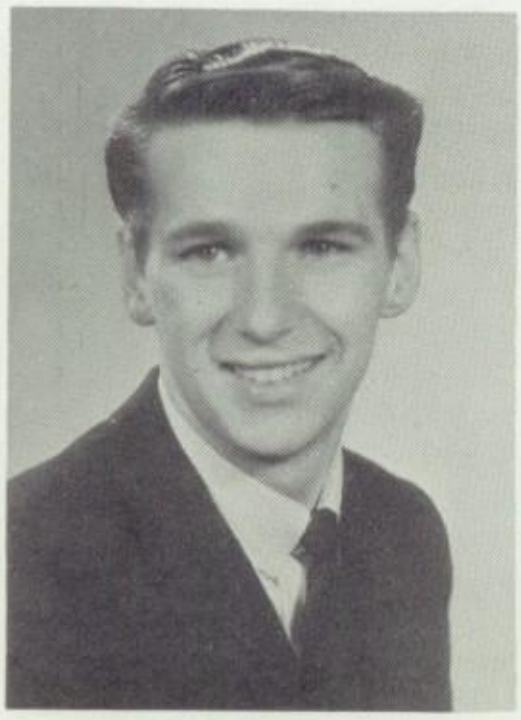
DAVE DUDLEY
"I may be little, I may be small, But I like girls best of all."

SUE EDMONDSON
"A quiet manner, but there is fun in her heart."

JIM DUVALL
"One at a time girls, you'll all get your chance."

DIANE EDWARDS
"My mind is made up. Don't confuse me with the facts."

DENNIS ECKERT
"Did you hear about the guy who took the corners on two wheels to save on tires."

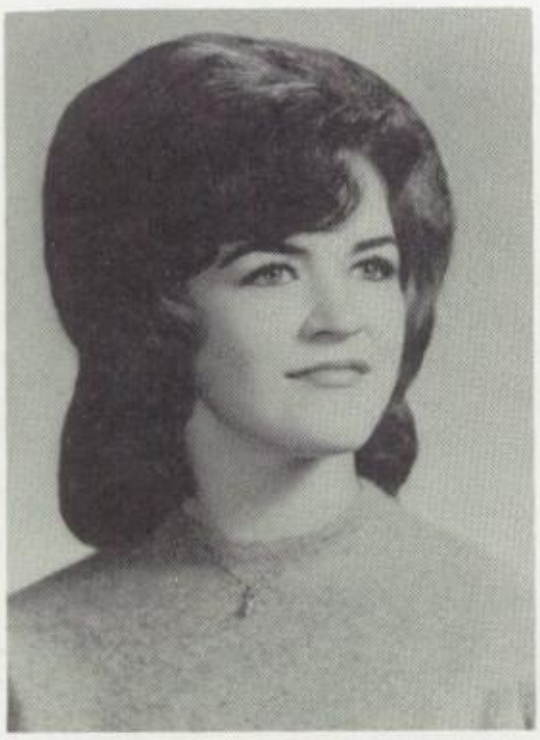


ED ELLISON
"They tell me girls are a dime a dozen, and all the time I've been buying jelly beans."

PAT ELLISON
"Wherever joy and mischief beam, this girl is always seen."

BARBARA FOUNTAIN
"Give me my boots and saddle and I'll go a long, long way."

VICKI ELLSION
"Talk about mischief, personified, wrapped in brown curls and dignified."



JIM FRANCISCO
"Why worry, it causes wrinkles."

KATHY FLESZAR
"She looks like an angel and acts like one too, but you can never tell what an angel will do."

FLORENCE FRIAR
"You cannot value a person for what he is made of, but for the many qualities he possesses."

Ordering senior announcements is only one of the many activities that is needed during the graduating year.

SAM FRIEMARK
"You can't read a book by its cover."

TOM GIRRBACH
"School breaks up my whole day."

DONNA GIAMANCO
"To speed is but human, to get caught, a fine."

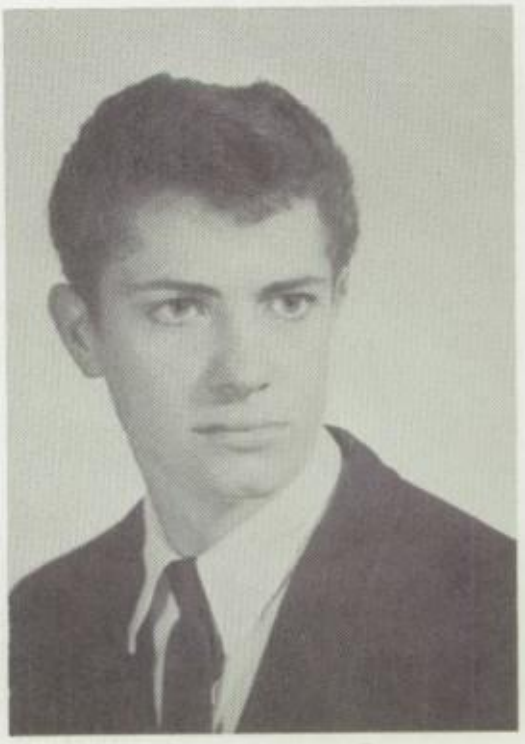
"Be good and you'll be happy but you'll miss a lot of fun."

PAT MOORE
"A careful student--careful not to overdo it."

AL MILLER
"What do you mean we had an assignment."



HARLEY MYLNE
"High Schools are full of knowledge. The freshmen bring a little in, the seniors take none out, so it accumulates."

JIM NADEAU
"Spring fever set in his bones at an early age and never found an escape."

JANICE NAVARRE
"Although I'm not so tall, I'd rather be short than not at all."

DIANE NAVARRE
"Smile with intent to do mischief."

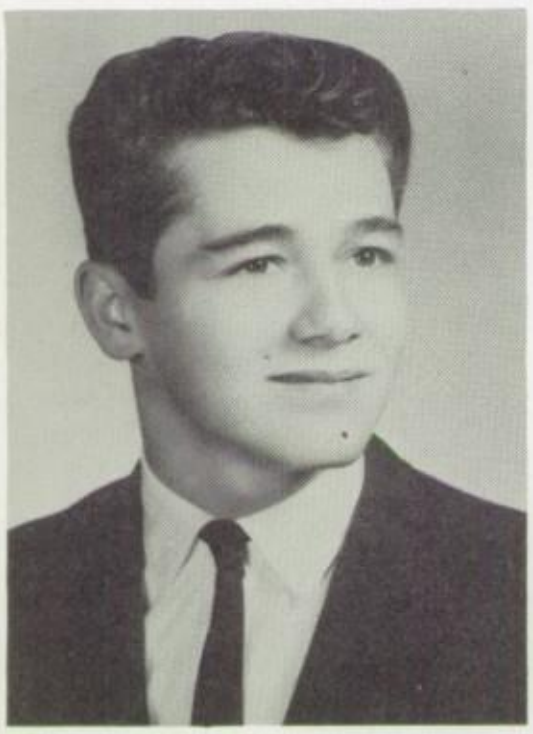
SUNDAY NAVARRE
"School, what's that? Something to eat."

Sue Edmondson talks over college plans with counselor, Mr. Eaton.

MIKE OKLEJAS
"Tis feared he would die of overwork."

RACHEL PARISH
"Of course I know a lot, I just forget so often."

RICK PEER
"I don't like confusion unless I can be a part of it."



GILLUS OWENS
"If you know how, you can see the sun shine even though it's raining."

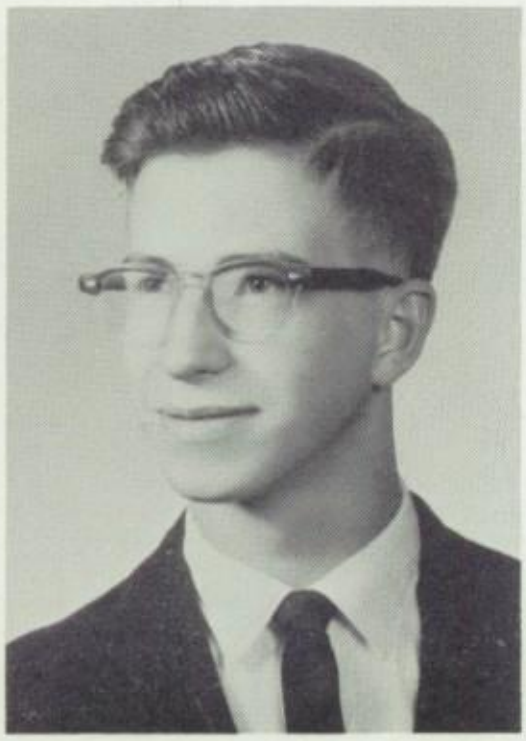
JUANITA PARKS
"I may look lazy, but I'm just saving my energy."

ED PICKENS
"Give him a crooked line and he'll argue it straight."

BERNIE PIERCE
"It's not what you do, it's what you get away with."

BOB PRUCKA
"Watch out world, I may do something sensational."

JEANANN REGELIN
"The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts."



BILL POORE
"Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you."

DARLENE PYDLEK
"She puts all her cares in a box then sits on the lid and laughs."

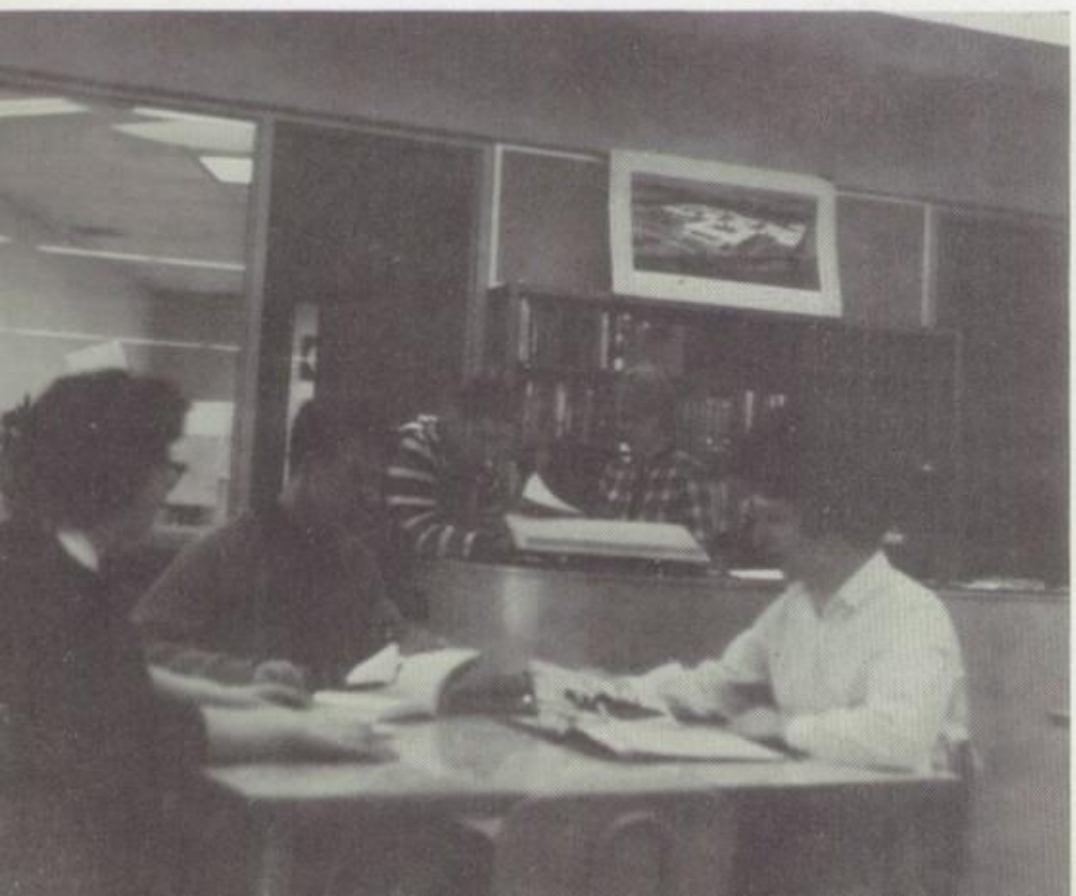
CONNIE REYNOLDS
"Small, quiet, and shy, Belies the twinkle in her eye."

ANDRIA ROSE
"A dollar for every freckle and we could all retire."

DAVE SCHAUB
"If I had my life to live over again, I'd make the same mistakes ---- only sooner."

JOE RUSSEAU
"School? Oh Yes! I do drop in occasionally to see how the classes are progressing."

ROB SCOLES
"Life is really simple, but women insist on making it complicated."

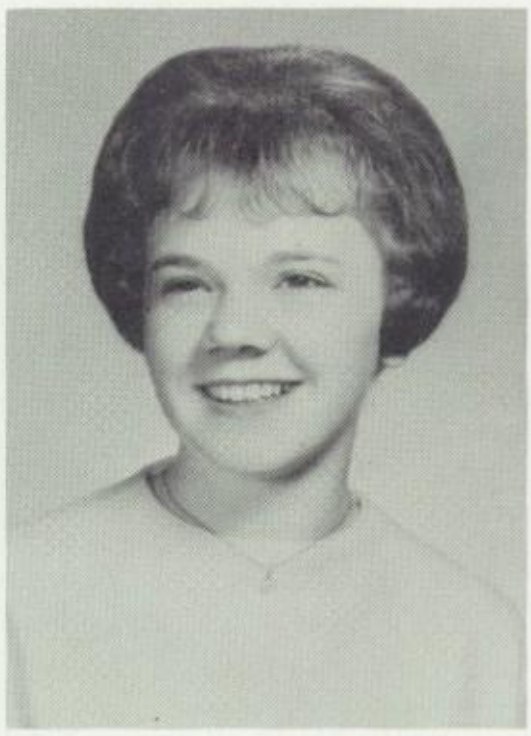


Seniors find the library very useful in catching up with the latest information.

KAREN SHANTEAU
"A warm heart, shown by a warm smile."

PAM SHELLY
"A blush that's as fair as the red of her hair."

DAVE SHAW
"Someday the world will need a man."



SANDRA SIMMONS
"Not to know her is missing one of the greatest opportunities of life."

MILDRED SHAW
"I can resist anything but temptation."

SHARON SIMMONS
"Boys are a nuisance, But I like to bothered."

NANCY SINATRA
"Her mind is keen and very alert and from her work she'll never shirk."

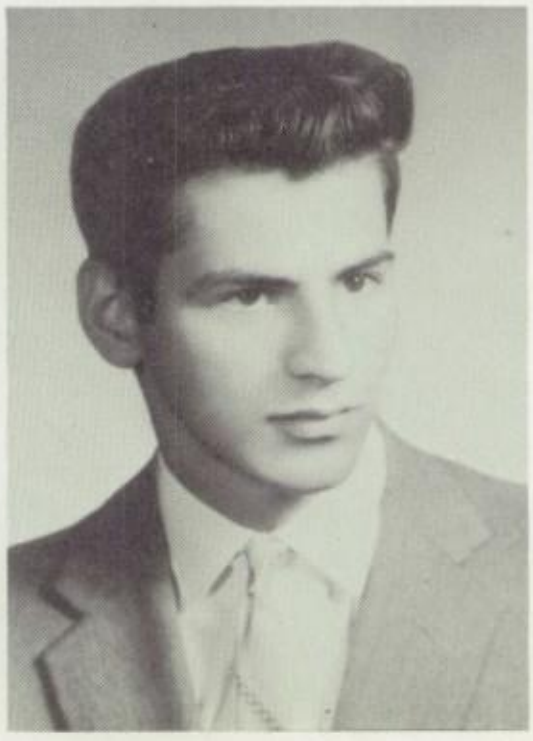
GREG SISUNG
"I came, I saw, I decided to skip."

DORIS SMITH
"Favors one, but smiles at all."

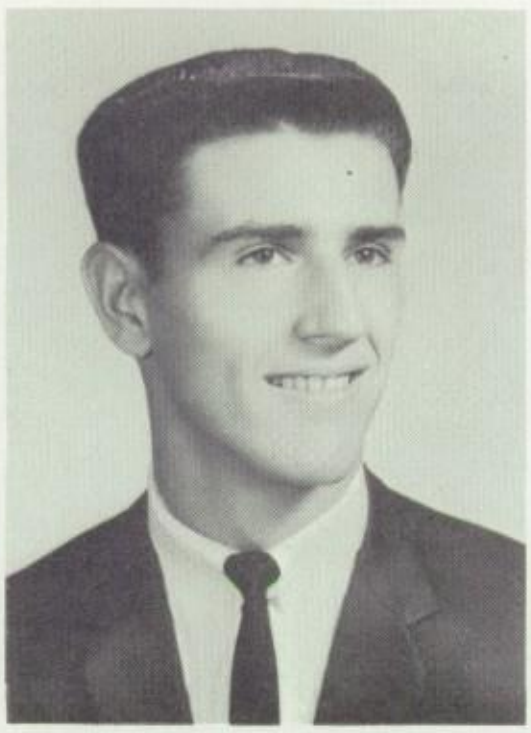
BUD SOWDER
"I want to be quiet, but my will power won't let me."

JUDY SWOPE
"It's better to be short and shine than to be tall and cast a shadow."

GRANT THOMS
"He seldom makes a sound, You'd scarcely know he's around."



PAT TIMINEY
"Sweet, neat, and rather petit."



BOB TODD
"Gentleman make no noise."

KATHY TOMLINSON
"Dynamite comes in small packages."

JOHN TURNER
"Never let studying hinder your education."

RON TYKOSKI
"Keen sense, common sense, and lots of room for nonsense."

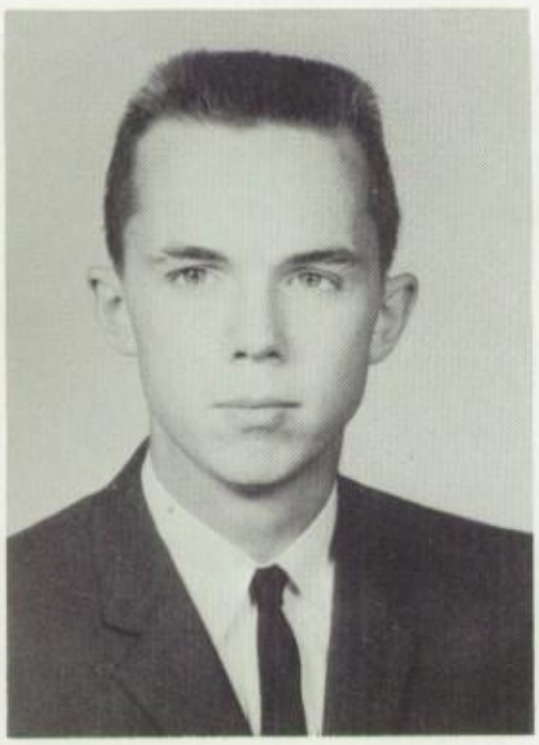
BARB VENEMA
"A will to progress and a will to please, She seems to possess both of these."

JAY VERRAN
"Scholarship, leadership, and character--But what a character."

SHIRLEY WOODS
"I was cut out to be an angel but someone must have stolen the pattern."

BILL WEBSTER
"Most folks are about as happy as they make up their mind to be."

LARRY ZIESKE
"His interest cements,
To all athletic events.



TOM WILLIS
